

STATUS

Improv workshop

Are you an Ace? A Jack? Queen?

Two?

A ten?

Are you playing the role you want to?

Status is something we do, not who we are.

How we hold ourselves

and what we say

can lead us to feel and be seen as more or less powerful,

more or less confident and in control.

By becoming aware of our behaviour

we can consciously alter it.

What participants said:

"It made you laugh, but got you thinking."

"Absolutely excellent learning that will stick with me ... Very valuable insights."

"Valuable in the workplace to assist in achieving positive results, respect, more responsibility."

* For those interested in understanding leadership, team, presenting, creating great working groups, working better with clients, improving their interview skills.

* For writers, teachers, performers, and all those interested in exploring the art of communicating.

Anne McDonald at 546-2427

prairieimprov@hotmail.com

www.prairieimprov.com